

Supreme Court Puts Off Decision In Rosenberg Controversy

Justices To Rule Today On Execution

Washington (AP) — Atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg won at least 24 more hours of life as the Supreme Court recessed last night until noon today without a decision on their fate.

The high court announced its decision to postpone action on a stay of execution for the condemned couple at 6:29 p. m.—only 4½ hours before the Rosenbergs would have paid the supreme penalty had a ruling been made against them.

Thus the hotly controversial stay granted Wednesday by Justice William O. Douglas, and weighed at length by the full court in extraordinary session yesterday, remained in force for the time being.

The nine justices debated four hours in secrecy before postponing overnight their decision on a Justice Department motion to throw out the Douglas order and thus let the executions take place at Sing Sing Prison.

Associate Justice Harold Burton mounted the bench alone to announce the postponement.

If the court overrides Douglas today, the Rosenbergs can be executed tonight or Saturday night.

Should the court go along with Douglas, the executions will be postponed while federal courts in New York decide whether the death sentence was properly imposed following the conviction of the New York courts on charges of wartime passing of U. S. atomic secrets to the Russians.

Last night's court decision, adding fresh suspense to the spy drama that has stirred world opinion, came as demonstrators for the Rosenbergs massed in the streets of the capital—thousands strong.

Carrying signs that demanded clemency, they started a march on the White House minutes before Burton announced the postponement.

President Eisenhower already has refused to interfere with the Rosenbergs' death sentence. It was his attorney general, Herbert Brownell Jr., who Wednesday filed the motion to override Douglas' stay of execution, thus bringing the high court judges back from their summer recess.

Brownell was standing over a news ticker near his suite in the Justice Department when the news came in that the court had postponed action. Just then an aide told him the President was calling on the phone. Brownell went into his office without comment.

A few minutes later FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover left his own suite and joined the attorney general in Brownell's office.

All day — ironically, it was the Rosenbergs' 14th wedding anniversary—suspense had mounted as the hours which could have been the couple's last hours ticked away.

The almost unprecedented summer session of the court, the demonstrations at the White House and the Capitol, the rumbling echoes of controversy in other quarters here and abroad had made the Rosenbergs court centers of a far-flung controversy.

Thurston Named Education Chief

Washington, (AP) — President Eisenhower yesterday nominated Lee M. Thurston, 57, Michigan educator, to be United States commissioner of education.

Thurston would succeed Earl J. McGrath, who recently resigned in protest against the Eisenhower administration's proposed cut in funds for the Office of Education.

West Demands Red Army Cease Military Terror In East Berlin

Berlin (AP) — The Western Powers demanded last night that the Soviet Army end its military terror in East Berlin.

They denounced a Russian firing squad's execution of a jobless West Berlin truck driver as "an act of brutality which will shock the conscience of the world."

The United States, Britain and France dramatically intervened here as Soviet armored forces beat down a worker's revolt which had spread through East Germany in a single day.

Protest strikes were still waged by unarmed Germans in many cities from the Oder to the Elbe River. Nine were under Soviet martial law.

The three Allies called on the Russians to lift immediately the "harsh restrictions" imposed on East Berlin, where at least 16 anti-Communists were slain and more than 200 wounded Wednesday.

They demanded immediate re-establishment of "free circulation" in the city, whose Eastern sector has been sealed off by 200 Soviet tanks and 10,000 armored troops.

The Allied powers said: "We formally deny that Willi Goettling, executed after a travesty of justice, was an agent provocateur under the orders of the intelligence service of a foreign power. His condemnation to death and his execution on an empty pretext appear to us as acts of brutality which will shock the conscience of the world."

"We condemn the irresponsible recourse to military force which has as its result the killing or serious wounding of a considerable number of citizens of Berlin including some from our own sectors."

The Western protest to the Russians came eight hours after they announced 35-year-old Goettling's execution. Millions of Germans had feared that it was the prelude to a ghastly blood bath in the Soviet zone.

The protest was delivered in the name of the Allied high commissioners by the three Western commandants here. It was addressed to Sergei Dengin, Soviet political chief in East Berlin, who has the rank of general by protocol.

THOUSANDS OF DEFIANT WORKERS storm the Friedrichstrasse sector of East Berlin at the height of the anti-Soviet "freedom revolt" after setting fire to a Communist newspaper stand. A highlight of the greatest revolt to be staged in a Red-dominated area, the riots brought death to a number of persons and hundreds were injured. The Russians clamped martial law on East Berlin and ordered that not more than three persons could congregate in any section.

It was made public almost simultaneously with a Communist party broadcast admitting that the workers' rebellion was widespread in East Germany and promising "to be more just" to them in the future.

Somewhat behind red-flagged Brandenburg Gate, on the border between East and West Berlin, a firing squad riddled the first German condemned to death by a Soviet drumhead court for the workers' uprising against Red government.

Maj. Gen. P. T. Dibrova, ruling a million East Berliners by martial law, announced the execution with propaganda fanfare.

He charged that the victim, Willi Goettling, was a resident of West Berlin who had "worked on order of a foreign intelligence service" and "participated in the violent banditry yesterday against the organs of power" in the Russian sector. He left open the question of whether more executions would follow.

More than 100 East Berliners, accused by Communist informers of joining the demonstrations, were jailed.

But hundreds of thousands apparently stayed home yesterday despite orders by the East German government to return to work immediately.

Official Communist proclamations admitted that only a fraction of the city's Eastern industries—gripped Wednesday by a general strike that mushroomed through the rank and file of Red-run unions—resumed any activity yesterday.

Goettling's execution horrified Germans already aroused by the death of at least 16 persons in East Berlin's street fighting and unconfirmed reports that from seven to 22 persons had been killed in similar rioting at Magdeburg.

House Bars Inquiry Into Vet's Finances

Washington, (AP) — The House yesterday rejected a proposal which would have allowed an investigation of a veteran's finances if he asked for free medical care for an ailment not connected with his service.

By a roll call vote of 217 to 180, the House turned down the proposal which it had adopted tentatively Wednesday. Voting against the restrictions were 29 Republicans, 177 Democrats and one independent. Voting for it were 165 Republicans and 15 Democrats.

The effect of the vote is to permit free treatment in a Veterans Administration hospital for any veteran willing to sign an oath that he cannot afford to pay for private treatment. The VA may not question his word. The same situation exists now.

With that decision made, the House proceeded to pass and send to the Senate an appropriation bill carrying $5,284,269,664 for the Veterans Administration, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Selective Service System for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bill also provides for the

129 U. S. Service men Die In World's Worst Air Disaster

Tokyo, Friday, (AP) — The world's worst air disaster killed every one of 129 U. S. servicemen aboard a giant Globemaster in a fiery crash near Tokyo yesterday.

The great, two-decked C124, its engines failing after a take-off for Korea, was trying desperately to get back to Tachikawa airbase, 25 miles west of Tokyo. It never made it.

The Globemaster went into a flat spin, staggered, and plummeted nose down into a muddy farm.

Japanese farmers said there was a terrific flash and a roar as the 3,000 gallons of gasoline aboard burst into flame. Then the dead and dying were incinerated in a towering funeral pyre.

"The smell of burned oil and human flesh was terrible," AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported from the scene. "The bodies were terribly burned and mangled."

"The fire was so hot it ignited magnesium metal in the plane's framework and part of it burned like a thermite bomb."

"The rain kept coming down, hissing on the hot steel that was tangled up in giant balls of wreckage."

"The salvage crews were working in leg-deep mud. It was like something from the Korean battlefield—medics carrying the bodies away in litters and the ambulances filling slowly down the road."

Hours later, by searchlight, Air Force crews worked to recover the charred bodies. One victim was found still clasping a rosary. Apparently he had been praying when his fate overtook him.

The Air Force said it would hold an immediate investigation to try to discover the cause of the crash. The long list of victims will not be released until their next of kin are notified.

Of the total aboard, seven were crew members and the rest were airmen and Army Engineers attached to airbases in Korea. The men were returning from rest leave in Japan.

All Far East C124 four-engined giants, capable of carrying 222 passengers, had just gone back into service after being grounded over the weekend with generator trouble. In recent days, flights had been cancelled several times because of mechanical trouble.

The Air Force said, however, there was nothing to indicate coming trouble on the fatal flight.

U. S. Charges Rhee Violated U. N. Authority

Washington, (AP) — The United States accused South Korean President Syngman Rhee yesterday of violating "the authority of the United Nations Command" by releasing thousands of prisoners of war just as U. N. truce with the Reds appeared about ready for signing.

Secretary of State Dulles announced that President Eisenhower was communicating the American attitude to Rhee along with the declaration that the United States has conducted armistice negotiations in good faith and is continuing to act in good faith.

The grave uncertainty over the truce outlook resulting from Rhee's stunning action Wednesday night led to a series of top-level conferences here during the day.

South Korea's Premier, Too Chin Paik, cut short his visit to Washington by a day or more and suddenly took a plane for home.

"I must go," is all he would say.

A Korean Embassy spokesman said Paik wanted to get home as soon as possible "because of unforeseen developments." There was no elaboration.

It was learned that shortly before his departure Paik conferred with Dulles and that Dulles related the American policy for a truce on the terms that have been agreed on with the Communists. Dulles sought to impress upon Paik for relay to President Rhee—the dangers which U. S. officials see in the present situation.

But while administration leaders were thus deploring Rhee's action, Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) took a contrasting view. He told reporters "freedom loving people throughout the world should applaud the action of Syngman Rhee."

He said Rhee's decision must have been based on the question, "Why should anti-Communists be kept by us in prison stockades?"

Administration leaders were reported doing everything possible to bring the situation under control and minimize the dangers that the truce would be wrecked. Obviously one key to the future was whether the Reds wanted to seize upon this incident either to stall or block an armistice or press the U. N. for new concessions.

The prisoners whom Rhee released are part of a total of almost 50,000 who have declared they would resist repatriation to their Red homelands in North Korea and China. For more than a year, the question of what to do with them tied up truce negotiations.

Joseph D. Mazzei, for some two years an FBI undercover operator in the Communist party, testified under oath that Lou Boritz proudly announced at a secret Communist meeting in Pittsburgh last Dec. 4 he had been assigned to liquidate the senator.

Boritz quickly refused on grounds of possible self incrimination to say whether Mazzei's story was true.

Accuser and accused appeared before the Senate investigations subcommittee of which McCarthy is chairman.

Since he was a central figure in the testimony, McCarthy handed his gavel to Sen. Mundt (R-SD) and sat back as a highly interested but largely silent participant in the inquiry.

Costly Fire At Base

Whittier, Alaska, (AP) — Fire destroyed millions of dollars worth of military installations and supplies Wednesday night at this key Alaska military port.

Harrisburg, (AP) — Opposition to amendments to a Senate bill setting up child adoption procedures for Pennsylvania was announced yesterday by the board of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs.

There may be five or 10 times that many still maintained by counties, however," he added. The state has no figures on these.

The automobile age—and particularly the truck—spelled the beginning of the end of covered wooden bridges, said Porter. The bridges just couldn't take the additional weight, he explained.

Maintenance costs of the old bridges is light, he said, but once rotting—particularly in the joints—sets in, nothing can be done.

The state official said the commonwealth now maintains 175 of

American Guards Kill Number Of Fleeing Captives

Seoul, Friday (AP) — More than 900 anti-Communist Korean prisoners of war bolted to freedom last night in a fresh gesture of defiance of the U. N. Command less than 12 hours after some 25,000 POWs were released on orders of South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The U. N. Prisoner of War Command said the new mass break came at Yongchon, some 70 miles northwest of Pusan. The command said 905 prisoners crashed through nine-foot wire fences but that about 235 POWs remained in camp.

South Korean security guards used tear gas and fired some shots in an effort to stop the break. The command said one prisoner was wounded.

An Allied spokesman said 190 anti-Red inmates of Pusan Prisoner of War Hospital fled early today but that 93 were recaptured. The hospital holds some 3,100 Koreans and Chinese, both pro- and anti-Communist.

The South Korean government's unauthorized release of 25,000 anti-Red prisoners in the pre-dawn hours yesterday touched off bloody fighting during the day between POWs and U. S. Marines.

The battle-tested Marines killed up to 33 prisoners and wounded scores more at a stockade near Inchon, Seoul's port city. Four hundred prisoners escaped through eight-foot-high barbed wire fences but up to 100 were recaptured.

Two Marines were wounded seriously. The camp's commander said carbine fire was poured on the Marines from a nearby rice field. He did not elaborate. Apparently it came from Korean sympathizers.

The escaping prisoners scattered among a populace urged by President Syngman Rhee to give them hiding along with the 25,000 others who easily fled four stockades in South Korea yesterday while South Korean guards turned their backs.

Outnumbered U. S. guards killed nine escaping prisoners and wounded 16 yesterday. Battalions of Marines and soldiers were rushed in and took over guard duty, replacing the Rhee-controlled South Koreans.

Rhee took full responsibility for his order which struck at the heart of an impending armistice agreement. He said he did it without consulting with U. N. officials and one of his spokesmen boasted, "We pulled the rug out from under them."

Peiping radio charged that "the Americans deliberately connived at Rhee's violation of the agreement on the repatriation of POWs. The official Chinese Red radio, in a broadcast heard in Tokyo, said "the whole world is now turning to the U. S. government to see how it will deal with this outrage."

Prime Minister Winston Churchill said in London he was "shocked and grieved." The British Foreign Office asked the U. N. Command for "a full report."

Rushing in reinforcements after military leaves were cancelled, U. S. troops quickly rounded up nearly 1,000 of the freed prisoners.

A courier hurried to Pannunjom with a letter from the senior U. N. truce delegate assuring the Reds "every effort is being made to recover the prisoners."

It was considered a well-nigh impossible task. Discarding prisoner garb for civilian clothes, the thousands could hide away indefinitely in remote homes among the hills. Some of those recaptured today near Inchon were civilian clothing.

Many were reported planning to join the South Korean Army but high military sources cast doubt on this.

What effect the defiant action might have on the nearly-accomplished armistice agreement was not yet clear, but there was some optimism that it would have no immediate effect.

Blondin said "rather that it was easy to move the refrigerator."

Traffic Referee Pollin Shull slapped a $50 reckless driving fine on Blondin, who was in a minor accident while transporting the refrigerator.

When the new toll bridges at Portland and at Delaware Water Gap are opened within a period of months, the wooden bridge at Portland is expected to be closed to automobiles and trucks, but left open to pedestrians and bicycles.

The answer to why the bridges were built with a roof, Porter said, is "purely for protection." The overhead structure, he said, helps keep the timbers from rotting due to wet weather.

Wayne County Plant Produces 400,000 Beach-Balls Annually

A South Sterling industry operating three shifts is turning out the plastic beach-balls, evident in retail stores throughout the nation, at the rate of 400,000 a year.

Owned by Charles Frey, of South Sterling, and Albert Madden, of Angels, the Wayne County plant employs 28 persons, mostly women, and uses an electronic heat-sealing process to complete their operation.

Segments of the ball arrive at the plant ready-cut and welded together on five machines producing heat electronically. The end discs, one of which has an inflating valve, also are welded in the same manner. After testing under air pressure, the popular beach ball is packaged and sent to a national distributor.

Frey and Madden, the latter of F. A. Madden and Son, wood turners and toy manufacturers, turn out 10,000 to 12,000 plastic beach balls weekly, varying in sizes of 12, 16 and 24 inches.

The company also is producing plastic book covers and at times manufacturers 13,000 weekly. This year they expect to market 130,000. Many of the covers already are being used by local public libraries.

The company, "Pocono Mountains Plastic Co." has added impetus to the fast growing industrial might of the region.

A new business now operating on Route 209 just east of Eagle Valley Corner, East Stroudsburg is set for its official debut Tuesday.

Robert Christman, 1208 N. 5th St., Stroud Township, a sheet metal worker, is the owner of the Dairy King, a modern building specializing in frozen custard (ice cream) and a variety of sundaes.

Christman already has his new enterprise in operation but will have the grand opening Tuesday when he gives away a free cone for every one purchased.

With 600 feet frontage on the south side of the highway, Christman's plant is 37 x 34 feet and ample parking facilities are provided. He said yesterday he contemplated adding a hot dog and root beer concession in the near future.

Presently working with Christman are his wife, Shirley, and two other persons. Tuesday the stand will be open from noon to midnight. Presently it is operating from 2 to 11:30 p.m. Sunday through Friday and from 9 p.m. to midnight Saturdays. The business closes from sundown Friday to sundown Saturday.

Russ Barhight is expanding his service at the Tire Center, 100 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, and will soon open two new bays for front end alignment and automobile inspection.

A tire consultant with complete recapping facilities on hand, Barhight said this week the new addition to his service station is being made to keep abreast of changing business, and to provide full service in the automobile field.

An exploding cook stove sent a Shawnee Inn chef to Monroe County General Hospital dispensary yesterday for treatment of burns.

The chef, Henry Chatin, 60, suffered first and second degree burns of both forearms, neck, face and left hand.

An 18-year-old East Stroudsburg man, employed at Worthington Mower Co. received contusions and abrasions of the right hip when part of the floor in the former brewery building collapsed.

Hospital records show Fred Hine Jr., 467 Lincoln Ave., was working in the loft of the structure when the floor gave in.

Robert Fredmore, 419 Broadhead Ave., East Stroudsburg, cut the base of his left palm and suffered abrasions of the left arm while working with a power machine.

A Worthington Mower Co. employee, Lester LaBar, East Stroudsburg, RD, cut his right index finger when the floor gave in.

Two Bethlehem men were treated for injuries received in an automobile accident.

They are William Hanley, 22, who suffered lacerations of the lower lip and tongue and abrasions of the left knee, and Stephen Mahr, who cut his upper lip, mouth and received leg abrasions.

The water to be used in the giant concrete mixer near the new-road section on Crossdale Farm is being purchased from the Borough of Water Gap. It is hauled in a tank truck from a hydrant near the Bowers' property. The dust from this section of road work has become so constant and heavy that residents of "The Lane" and farther removed streets lodged complaints with Mayor Forrest Smith, who in turn notified the construction company of the nuisance.

'Mr. Republican'

Senator Robert A. Taft's decision to give up his job as floor leader for the rest of the session of Congress, while he undergoes treatment for a hip ailment, will be a matter of regret to his many admirers.

However, it is encouraging that the Ohioan expects to continue to participate in the business of the Senate during his period of treatment.

Senator Taft holds a position in the public life of the nation second only to that of President Eisenhower, and his complete withdrawal from public activity would be a serious loss to the country. We hope he has a rapid recovery.

Senator William F. Knowland, who will serve as acting majority leader for the remainder of the Senate session, is a man in whom the people of the country will have confidence.

A Penny a Letter

Postal rates are pretty sure to go up.

The Eisenhower Administration has decided this is the only cure for two serious ailments which have been plaguing the Post Office Department—an annual deficit of nearly 600 million dollars and what Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield calls 'a serious breakdown in efficiency generally.'

Specific rate increases have been announced. The Administration will propose an "across-the-board" raise. That means the familiar three-cent stamp, keystone of the postal service, will give way to the four-cent.

Any business which year after year runs as deep in the red—even if it is a Government agency—and at the same time furnishes such ragged service, is in need of drastic overhauling.

This apparently is what the Administration has in mind. It will cost postal users more money, but as taxpayers they will get a break. It will be easier to put an extra penny on that letter than digging down every March 15 for extra dollars to pay off the postal deficit.

Not Much of a 'Victory'

Harry Bridges, the West Coast troublemaker, has had his conviction for perjury and conspiracy set aside.

This means he won't have to go to prison, his citizenship is restored and deporting him becomes a tougher problem, although it is not entirely blocked.

Bridges thinks the Supreme Court's action is a "real victory" for him. But all the court said was that the statute of limitations had run out in his case. It didn't exonerate him. He got off on a technicality. And by a 4-to-3 decision at that.

It's not much of a "victory" for Bridges. But it's a setback for the taxpayers, who had to bear the expense of his 81-day trial in 1950 and all the other legal maneuvers in which he has been involved.

Salute To "The Preem"

With this department a horse named The Preem is the Horse of the Year. He has a sense of duty, self-control, poise and tolerance—the elements of fine character. Tossed into a race against Native Dancer, Jamie K. and others in the Belmont, one of the toughest stake races on earth, with no chance, except to look cheap and inadequate, he didn't throw his jockey, bite his trainer or kick his owner. No other horse can make that statement. (Yes, Kamehameha finished behind him, but through an accident.) We nominate The Preem, owned and entered by Louis Prima, noted bandmaster, as the Most Needlessly Humiliated Horse of 1953 and the Skinners Most Likely to Hate Band Music. Many a human being placed in a similarly humiliating position would have protested violently, blowing his top at the idea of taking a licking before 40,000 track fans and millions of TV addicts. But The Preem, beyond pricking up his ears in a "Who me?" attitude when saddled, conducted himself like a sport, a gentleman and a thoroughbred.

He showed rare poise in the paddock, walked onto the track with the air of the martyrs, gave no trouble and did his best, surprising everybody, after the race, by turning peacefully into the path back to the stable instead of pawing up the earth, snorting fiercely and galloping off, teeth flashing and nostrils breathing fire, on a hunt for his bandmaster-owner.

We understand Louis Prima went to The Preem's stall and CAME OUT ALIVE! Proving this animal has mercy and the greatest of all virtues, the capacity to forgive. Mr. Prima paid $1,000 to enter The Preem and got the horse into such a fix. If he ever enters the stable and talks about economy we hope The Preem will sock him. ($1,000 ain't hay ... and does The Preem know it?)

"Don't join the book burners."

Don't be afraid to go into the library and read about Communism," said President Eisenhower at Dartmouth ... Who's been burning any books, Ike? ... (That odor of smoke is from people "burning up" over a few simple questions) ... And who's been showing any fear of going into a library to get some facts on Communism? ... The Jackie Gleason program has six writers and there are times when the audience should be glad there are not seven ... A complete TV comedy hour was done aboard a United States battleship Sunday night ... So the channels are THAT deep! ... Happy Felton and the ballplayers of the Brooklyn Club are doing a swell job for the kids ... For a half hour before every game groups of small fry, dreaming of a career in the big leagues, are allowed to ask advice from the players, and the graciousness, patience and cooperation of the stars is top-drawer stuff ... No casual routines or bored manners ... The Dodgers go all out to help the kids.

Security Council Studies Red China's U. N. Entry

Washington—The National Security Council is studying a proposal that would open the way for Red China to be admitted to the United Nations.

Under the compromise the Peiping regime would get limited U. N. membership. This problem is the most difficult and explosive facing the Administration in the post-war period. It will be a crucial issue at both the "Big Three" meeting in Bermuda late this month and at the political conference that will follow the Korean truce. To prepare for those momentous showdowns, President Eisenhower directed his chief policy advisers to formulate possible courses of action.

The compromise plan was submitted by the State Department, although it did not originate there. The real author is Australia, which, like the U. S., has refused to extend diplomatic recognition to Red China. The UN formula was first proposed to then-Secretary of State Acheson by Australian Ambassador Percy Spender last June.

Acheson refused to consider it. He took the position that no thought could be given to the issue until the Korean war was ended. Main provisions of the Australian compromise are as follows:

Admit Red China to the General Assembly but not to the Security Council. Remove Nationalist China from the Security Council and limit its UN membership to the General Assembly as the representative of the government of Formosa and such other countries as Chiang Kai-Shek may become head of.

Red China, in exchange for being admitted to the General Assembly where it would have equal standing with the Nationalists, would be required to do three things: (1) Accept a UN plan for the unification of Korea, (2) agree to cease all aggression in Southeast Asia, and (3) recognize the Formosa government.

Crux of the Australian plan is the contention that the controlling question is not whether Red China should be permitted to join the UN but the nature of its admittance.

Australia is firmly opposed to allowing Peiping to enter the Security Council, with its strident veto power. But Australia holds that if peace can be procured in the Far East by granting Red China membership in the General Council, this concession would be worth the price.

That is the argument now being weighed in the National Security Council, the top policy agency of the government.

What the President and his advisers will decide is conjectural. However, members of the Senate

Foreign Relations Committee, with whom he has discussed the matter, consider it highly significant that the President has never slammed the door completely shut on seating Red China in the UN.

He has declared flatly against granting membership in the Security Council. But he has not specifically excluded admittance to the General Assembly.

Note: The Pentagon is getting disturbing reports from the French about a new Communist threat in Indo-China. According to the French, the Vietnam is mounting a new offensive with large Red forces being massed in the vicinity of Phuyen, a Communist stronghold only 50 miles north of Hanoi. That city is the hub of French military operations in the north and its loss would be catastrophic to the French.

Pro and Con—Two leading members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee debated an intriguing question—Which is the best way to combat Communism, via the soul or the stomach?

The issue arose during a closed-door discussion of the stalled foreign aid budget. Senate Hubert Humphrey (D, Minn.) vigorously opposed the cuts on the ground they played into the hands of Red agitators. Committee Chairman Alexander Wiley (R, Wis.) hotly disagreed with that view. He argued the question was not solely a material one.

"The real problem in Europe," retorted Humphrey, "is economic; breeding with the past and ending the glaring discrepancies between the wealth and luxuries of the rich and the desperate poverty and want of the poor. That's what it all boils down to."

"When you talk about contributing material wealth without giving a nation moral fibre, you are not going to get anywhere," insisted Wiley. "We should help supply this spiritual inspiration."

"I don't take second seat to anyone on the need for spiritual values," said Humphrey. "But I get my spiritual in church, and not in the committees of Congress."

"I believe this Committee can give some," declared Wiley. "I think you will find, replied Humphrey, "that this Committee can serve a far better function by helping to fill the stomachs of people so they will be able to have time to go to church for spiritual inspiration. That's what churches are for, when the people have time to go to them."

George Sokolsky Says ...

Dwight D. Eisenhower, By Any Poll Of Popularity, Matches FDR's Acceptance

Popularity and Purpose

Dwight D. Eisenhower, by any poll of popularity, holds and even betterers the good-will of the American people of all sections. He matches, if he does not exceed, the acceptance which marked Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term.

It is because of this that his advisers risk, at this time, unpopular measures, such as the avoidance of tax reduction, the settlement of the Korean War by appeasement, the continued employment of Acheson men in the State Department, etc. The theory is that more things are possible when Eisenhower is at the peak of popularity than might be possible later when the fortunes of politics may make for greater difficulties. This concept, from the standpoint of practical politics, is correct only if Eisenhower is guaranteed a majority in Congress whether the Republicans or Democrats prevail.

It may be recalled that at one time General Eisenhower believed that he could be nominated by both parties. Actually, he was elected by both parties. Calculations of the Congressional vote show that Eisenhower and the Republican candidates for Congress ran about equal in the normally Republican Northern States but Eisenhower ran far ahead of his party in getting so large a popular vote in the Solid South, which is normally Democratic. In a word, Eisenhower owes as much to Texas as to New York.

Thus far, whatever support he has had in Congress has come from a Republican - Democratic coalition which provides him with the votes which the Republicans alone are unable to gather. The success of this coalition has been the achievement of Senator Robert A. Taft. Should Senator Taft's current enforced inactivity eliminate him from active management of the affairs of his party, Eisenhower may find himself in difficulties.

Senator William Knowland is an able, forceful man of outstanding integrity. Senator Taft chose Knowland to act for him because he can trust him to avoid such subservience to the White House as other Republican members would resort to. Senator Knowland has an opportunity for brilliant leadership.

The Republicans have a majority of one in the Senate. Should one senator retire or die, the control of the Senate might be in doubt. Should the vote on organization be tied, Vice President Nixon would cast the binding vote. However, the situation could be complicated by the independence of Wayne Morse. He is now neither a Republican nor a Democrat. His current political affiliation seems to be the Socialistic-inclined Americans for Democratic Action.

Morse has been deprived of his committee memberships and therefore of seniority. He fought for his committee memberships on the floor of the Senate and was defeated by a combined Republican-Democratic vote. Morse is regarded by his colleagues as a nuisance, which, undoubtedly, he means to be.

The significance of Morse is that he has placed himself in the position to bargain the control of the Senate should the Republicans lose two votes by death or retirement. He could then negotiate for his vote. Should he vote Republican, he and Nixon could continue the present organization of the Senate; should he throw his vote to the Democrats, the Senate would be without a majority and in a state of such confusion as to make the conduct of business almost impossible. Morse could, in such circumstance, break down the Eisenhower Administration more closely resembling France than the United States.

Ours is a resilient people who find expedients to handle men like Morse. The Democrats would, beyond doubt, come to the rescue. Such Democratic Senators as Byrd or Russell would never accept power by nuisance value. They would surely vote to continue the present organization of the Senate until the people have made their choice in an election. Both parties dislike mugwumps.

One other factor appears in this complication: Styles Bridges, president pro tem of the Senate, a respected Republican, runs for re-election in 1954. His victory would be assured in ordinary circumstances. Unfortunately it is becoming obvious that President Eisenhower's Chief of Staff, Sherman Adams, with White House prestige, is going to run in the New Hampshire Republican primaries. That campaign is on now. Powerful Republican senators are supporting Bridges. They will do everything possible henceforth to embarrass Adams, which means that Eisenhower will suffer the bother of an intra-party quarrel.

On Broadway

—by Walter Winchell

Notes of a Newspaperman —

History is a joyous and saddening pageant. It constructs and demolishes life and shapes the course of events with irresistible power. The basic function of a newspaper is to report such events with all their glories, absurdities and tragedies. High-lights are reflected as well as shadows. The ambitions of nations are conveyed or the passions of a single human being. The fact that death is frequently newsworthy is not an expression of morbid fascination but a representation of stern realism. International catastrophes and personal calamities make headlines and history. It could be the demise of a nation or the story of the condemned Rosenbergs. Mankind is often the most formidable of all beasts of prey. Each headline eventually attains the timeless quality of history. It is the task of a reporter to record such incidents. Frequently their stories strike emotions like the thunder of Hell.

Gene Fowler's stunning description of Ruth Snyder's execution fulfills the varied qualities of superior reporting. It exemplifies a perceptive eye and a gift for significant detail. It penetrates the superficial aspects of the story and transmits the myriad emotions throbbing beneath every human event.

Fowler reported: "Ruth wore black stockings, the right one of which was rolled down to the ankle. On her feet were brown felt slippers. She wore blue bloomers ... Her blue eyes were red with much weeping. Her face was strangely old. The blonde bobbed hair, hanging in stringy bunches over her furrowed brow, seemed almost white with years of toil and suffering as the six dazzling, high-powered lights illuminated every bit of Ruth's agonized lineaments. Tightly corseted by the black leather bands Ruth was flabby and futile as the blast struck her. Her body went forward as far as the restraining things would permit. The fixed form was taut. The body that once thrived with the joy of her sordid bacchanals turned brick red as the current struck."

The nature of a reporter's profession often gives him an almost microscopic view of humanity's sombre side. But newsmen never become tough enough to accept it casually. After Gene Fowler became one of Hollywood's ace scenarists, he wryly commented: "I never liked seeing persons executed—since none of the victims ever seemed to be moving picture producers."

Incidentally, when Ruth Snyder paid her grim debt to society it aroused a controversy that still rages in journalistic histories. A news-photo (with a small camera strapped to his ankle) caught the murderer cooling in 'The Chair'. The published photo horrified many people. Belittlers deplored it as an illustration of vulgar sensationalism. The defenders contended it was merely an example of journalistic enterprise ... The single photo was responsible for zooming a tabloid's million new readers.

It is essential for reporters to develop a rugged emotional exterior. Covering executions, however, has yielded the toughest. Some have succumbed or have been sickened by the horror. It isn't unusual for newsmen to fortify themselves with harsh beverages before covering such a story. Which makes the following more astounding: When the murderer of a French politician was guillotined some time ago, women journalists were barred. But an American newswoman named Mary Knight covered it. She walked in with other reporters — dressed in male clothes.

The annals of journalism include many vivid descriptions of the final grim pay-off for killers. Chicago's editor W. F. Storey coined the classic headline for a hanging: "Jerked to Jesus."

Then there's Jack Lait's story of Dillinger's demise which has enhanced numerous anthologies. The opening paragraph: "John Dillinger, ace bad man of the world, got his last night—two slugs through his heart and one through his head. He was tough and he was shrewd, but he wasn't as tough and shrewd as the Federals, who never close a case until the end. It took 27 of them to end Dillinger's career, and their strength came out of his weakness—a woman."

The darkness swirling within criminal minds is beyond the borders of rational behavior, of course. Murder, fire, gunnery killed with cold and brutal indifference. When one of the convicted murderers was about to enter Sing Sing to await the Hot Squad—reporter Meyer Berger described the episode: "His mother and married sister were near the prison gate. They waved to him. He tried to stand up. He hollered, 'Goodbye, Momma,' but he choked on his words. His face was wet with tears."

Approximately 7 per cent of the men applying for life insurance in the United States are rejected.

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

On June 22, 1941, an American citizen, Ion Perdicaris, was kidnapped by Berber bandits.

President Theodore Roosevelt was notified of the kidnapping on that same day.

The newspapers carried the story. The whole country was violently incignant.

Without a moment's hesitation Roosevelt instructed his Secretary of State, John Hay, to wire the American consul in Morocco that unless Ahmed ben Mohamed Raisuli released Perdicaris without delay, we would use our armed forces to free him.

Hay sent the following telegram:

"We want Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead."

Seven words—but the captive American was released within 48 hours.

That was a bit less than 50 years ago.

How things have changed within less than half a century!

In those days there still was such a thing as righteous indignation.

The same kind of "righteous indignation" as when we threw off the yoke of Great Britain and became an independent sovereign country.

The American eagle in those days was a majestic bird a guardian over every American citizen.

American citizenship was a sacred asset—sacred not only to its holder but to every government on the globe.

"What is it today?" my friend asked. He could not answer his own question.

I can answer it.

Why is it that we Americans have so completely lost that capacity for righteous indignation that made Raisuli set Perdicaris free within 48 hours after he received a 7-word cable?

Because Raisuli KNEW that when America's citizens were aroused our country would stop at NOTHING to obtain justice for its own.

Today we do a lot of talking, but darn little DOING.

We shilly-shally and dilly-dally.

We shoot off our mouths about all the wonder weapons we have, but we hesitate to use them—and the world knows it.

Peace is a wonderful thing, but it can be had only if we first have the RESPECT of those who prefer WAR to peace.

But to gain the respect of the world, we must first of all have SELF-RESPECT.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

Jinx Falkenberg has interviewed countless celebrities on both radio and television, but the only time she was stopped cold, the deed was accomplished by a man well over eighty years old—Frank Lloyd Wright, architect and grandfather of film star Anne Baxter. Wright blandly suggested that women stop providing "cannon fodder" for future wars when Jinx recovered sufficiently to gasp, "But I thought you were going to talk about architecture!" "My dear young lady," the old maestro assured her, "I get PAID for that."

Barrett Group Asks State To Keep Route 90 Open To Travel

Relocating Of Highway Proposed

A proposal to relocate about one mile of highway in Barrett Township, leaving Route 90 clear from junction of Route 171 to Cresco and Mountainhome while work on a new highway is underway, was submitted this week to E. L. Schmidt State secretary of highways by a delegation from Mountainhome.

Charles Geissinger, owner of High Point Inn, Mount Pocono, and Monomnock Inn, Mountainhome, spokesman for seven businessmen and women who called on Schmidt at Harrisburg Tuesday, said the group's suggestion was accepted by the highway head who said he will study the proposal and announce the decision through Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe.

Action by the Barrett contingent followed the state's announcement that the Paradise Valley to Cresco road, a stretch of about 2.4 miles, would be closed to traffic while work is in progress this summer and traffic would be detoured about five miles.

The Barrett group expressed concern about the mile long section from the intersection of Routes 171 and 90 to Cresco, pointing out that while work on Route 171 occurred, Route 90 could suffice as a detour. But they contended, after highway workers finished to the intersection, the remaining distance would force the entire shutdown of the road, leaving their summer guests added mileage to travel enroute there.

Geissinger said the relocation would tie in with highway department's plans to divert Route 90 over the DL&W Railroad tracks at Cresco and still leave Route 90 free for travel.

He also reported that the cost to relocate would be no higher than the present plans, since the current arrangement calls for the new improvement to pass through a barn owned by George Vogt.

Barrett group's proposal would by-pass the barn, saving the state that amount in property loss, Geissinger said.

Accompanying Geissinger to Harrisburg were Rowena Stevens, David Shoemaker, Irviss Mick, Wilmer Vogt, Charles Vogt and George Vogt.

Street Sweeper In Operation

A street sweeper which has been leased to the borough of Stroudsburg for $1 a month until the newly purchased machine reaches here, was placed in operation Wednesday.

Borough Council approved purchase of a new hydraulically operated vehicle last month and was advised the new machine wouldn't arrive for 90 to 120 days. And so the manufacturer agreed to loan the borough one to replace the sweeper destroyed by fire several months ago.

Stroudsburg Council Okays Exonerations Totaling $4,900

Stroudsburg Council last night reviewed and approved exonerations for taxes on the 1952 duplicate of Tax Collector John Kitchen amounting to approximately $4,900.

Double assessments—meaning individuals paid taxes in one ward and were again assessed for taxes in another, or in the same ward under a different spelling of their name—by far accounted for the major amount of the required assessments.

Persons who were deceased for from one to more years, others who had moved out of the ward for from one to five years, took up the second share of required exonerations.

Remainder involved persons who were aged, indigent, or completely crippled or incurably ill and aged. Some $281.33 in real estate taxes were exonerated because of double assessments.

The remainder of the exonerations covered personal taxes of the

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

If the parched Southeast would like to hire a rainmaker, I know where they can get a dandy. Mrs. Abram Ross, speaking at the Garden Club's meeting under the trees, started her talk in brilliant sunshine, which lasted until she came to the part—

"Our most grave danger, however, is the ever-diminishing water supply."

That's when the rain pattered down on the Laurel Tea picture hats and the audience rose en masse and with a chair under each arm made their way to the packing sheds. After they were settled, she continued, undaunted, to explain just how grave the danger was. More than a little shower could help.

The hostess committee did a masterly job of hustling the tea, decorations and all into Mrs. LaBar's home. Even had roses frozen in the ice which cooled the punch.

Well, anyway it was a gala party, and the rain really didn't amount to much. Was quite dry by the time the teen-agers gathered at Mrs. Russell Custard's for supper. That's a beautiful view from the patio up there even with the mists veiling the far hills.

Rev. Ernest T. Campbell will officiate. The bride will be given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Oildorf. Mrs. Joseph Oildorf will serve as her matron of honor.

Everett Imbt will serve as his brother's best man and the ushers will include Floyd Klingel and Harold Lee.

The choir of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church honored their director Vernon C. Imbt and his bride-elect, Miss Margaret Oildorf, at a picnic supper meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Stevenson above Henryville.

Following the supper they presented them with a gift from the choir, and smaller humorous gifts from the individual members.

Minister Leaves For New Church

Saylorsburg — Rev. and Mrs. Wilson Rinker and sons, David and Jimmy have returned to their home in Holland, Mich., after visiting their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Rinker and Mr. and Mrs. William Snyder of Hamilton Square for three weeks.

Mr. Rinker was graduated from Western Theological Seminary, Holland, Mich., on May 20 and will accept the call to the Ebenezer Church, Holland, Mich.

Recuperating

Mrs. John L. Guelis, 55 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg is recuperating at the General Hospital where she underwent an operation Tuesday.

One disadvantage of being a size 18 or larger, is seeing all the smaller women walk off with the beautiful Mexican and Guatemalan skirts, while your own heart yearns for them. If this has happened to you, you are not alone. We are in the boat together . . . and maybe one of us had better get out before they capsize.

I may be wrong, of course . . . but I think these petite size in Mexican garments are a form of propaganda. Either Mexican exporters want American women to develop an inferiority complex, or they are trying to spread the idea that their native women are wondrously delicate and remarkably proportioned.

One of these days I intend to visit our Travel Bureau, arrange a visit to this neighboring country, and see for myself. I am positive that there are mothers of ten and twelve who dine on spaghetti, tamales, and the like, and still wear skirts. NOT TENTS. Until I see for myself, however, I'll be happy to resort to a solution just offered by Beatrice Gorgy of our accessories department — SKIRT LENGTHS. These lovely materials are all ready to be made up, and anyone who can hold a needle and use her head should be able to do it. The cloth is identical to that in ready made skirts, with the same South of the Border flair and the same North of the Hemline weave of bright, interesting colors.

After all, why should a girl sacrifice banana nut cake, strawberry chiffon pie, or spaghetti and mushrooms, for a Mexican skirt. If she can have them all? Hm . . . let's nibble on THAT awhile—and then tomorrow maybe we'll go on a diet!

HEARSAY

Ann Putnam tells me the column of a few days ago certainly hit the nail on the head. "Anela" is practically racing out of the store. It's easy to understand why. The hands of the average housewife takes a terrific beating every day, and the nails grow brittle from too many plunges into water of varying temperature. I'm happy that I saw "Anela" on the counter and was able to call it to so many people's attention. I'm sure it will prove every bit as excellent as our claims for it . . . Charlotte Roberts of our housewares department and Edna Brockman, head of the Travel Bureau, share birthday greetings today. Edna celebrated yesterday, however, with a wonderful, big cake and gifts galore. Another birthday was celebrated a day earlier by Thelma Gordon, one of her finest gifts being a big bottle of Lanvin tale in "My Sin." Never knew "sin" could be so scintillatingly scrumptious!

Annual Music Festival Opens At Tamiment

Tamiment—The second annual "Music Over The Poconos" festival was initiated at Camp Tamiment last night.

Featured attraction was the Curtis String Quartet. Concerts of chamber music will be given again tonight, Saturday and Sunday.

First selection presented by the quartet was Josef Haydn's "Quartet in G Major," followed by the "Quartet in D-flat Major, Opus 15" by Dohnanyi.

For the third and concluding selection on last night's premiere performance, the Curtis quartet were joined by solo violinist Joseph De Pasquale who is a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra's viola section.

The five chamber music experts then played Johannes Brahms' "Quintet in G Major, Opus 111" as the curtain-closer.

Tonight's program will consist of selections by Boccherini, Kodaly and Franz Schubert.

Members of the quartet are Jascha Brodsky, Louis Berman, Max Aronoff and Orlando Cole. Tonight's soloist will be cellist Samuel Mayes, also of the Boston orchestra.

PICNIC FARE—for the teen-agers who were entertained last night by Mrs. Russell Custard at her home in honor of the teen-age contestants in the contest sponsored by the Monroe Council of Republican Women this Spring. Square dancing by the lake and entertainment followed the picnic supper. (Daily Record Photo)

Pocono A. C. Deadlocks Johnsonville In Blue Mountain, 9-9

Visiting Nine Blows Lead Of Four Runs

East Bangor—Johnsonville overcame a 6-2 deficit here last night to earn a 9-9 deadlock with Pocono A. C. in a Blue Mountain League contest. It was the second time this year that Pocono A. C. has been involved in a tie game.

Larry Kelchner, Pocono A. C. infielder, lashed out a home run and single, while Harold Freeman had three hits in four trips to the plate.

Wild Pitches

Four wild pitches by Harold Jacobsen played a major role in Johnsonville's spurt that had the home team in front 8-7 for a brief time.

Pocono A. C. came back to take a 9-8 lead in the top of the fifth, only to have the home team score a singleton in the bottom of the same frame to even the score. The game was halted after five frames by darkness.

The contest will be replayed on Thursday, July 2.

Giants Trim Redlegs, 6-3

Cincinnati (AP) — The New York Giants made it three out of four yesterday over the Cincinnati Redlegs and gave pitcher Dave Koslo his first victory of the season in seven decisions, winning 6-3.

The southpaw needed the help of Hoyt Wilhelm in the sixth inning, however. It was Wilhelm's 31st appearance this year.

Loser

Jackie Collum, little lefthander, was blasted from the mound in the eighth when the Giants put the game on ice with two runs to bring the total to six.

Monte Irvin and Daryl Spencer each drove in two runs for New York. Irvin had three safeties and Spencer had a double and a triple.

Ted Kluszewski hit his 18th home run of the season for Cincinnati.

Red Sox Set Modern Record With 17 Runs In One Inning While Rolling Over Tigers, 23-3

Boston (AP) — The Boston Red Sox broke the majors' modern record for one-inning scoring by blasting three Detroit relief pitchers for 17 runs in the seventh yesterday while overwhelming the hapless Tigers, 23-3.

The terrific scoring spurge, generated by 14 hits and six bases on balls, wiped out the 15-run mark set by the Brooklyn Dodgers last season and one shy of the all-time record set by the Chicago Cubs 76 years ago.

Gene Stephens set a modern individual record by bunting out a double and two singles during his three successful batting tries in that furious frame, Sammy White and Tom Umphlett placed themselves in the record books by reaching three, each on two singles and a base on balls. Here is the play-by-play account:

Gernert hit his 12th homer into the leftfield screen scoring Goodman and Piersall ahead of him. Ellis Kinder singled to right.

White walked. Dick Weik replaced Steve Gromek on the mound for Chicago, Kinder and White advanced on Weik's first pitch, which was wild.

Stephens doubled to short right, scoring Kinder and White. Umphlett walked. Lipon singled to left, scoring Stephens. Kell lined out to Don Lund. Goodman singled to center, scoring Umphlett. Ted Lepore ran for Goodman.

Earl Harrist replaced Weik. Al Zarilla batted for Piersall and walked. Gernert walked, forcing in Lipon. Kinder singled to center, scoring Gernert.

Stephens singled to right, scoring Kinder. Umphlett singled to center, scoring White. Lipon walked, filling the bases. Kell flied to Lund.

Bus Owners To Discuss Tax Issue

Pocono Manor — Failure of the Legislature to act thus far on the repeal of the eight mills gross receipts tax on bus fares will not be overlooked in the deliberations of the Pennsylvania Bus Association during its 32nd convention at Pocono Manor Inn, June 29 and 30.

Spokesmen for the association revealed that part of their closing day's session will be devoted to a study of the legislative scene. However, it was pointed out that other matters will be considered in addition to the gross receipts tax.

Most of the convention will be devoted to improving service and lowering operating costs of Pennsylvania bus lines. Authorities in the transportation field are being brought from Cleveland, Chicago, New York and Washington, in addition to many from within Pennsylvania, to speak to the assembled bus executives.

For the first time in the association's history, two members of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission are scheduled to address the convention.

Thomas C. Egan will speak at the opening day luncheon, and Henry Houck will participate in a panel discussion on the same day.

President Harley L. Swift, Harrisburg, estimates attendance for the convention at more than 250. Many of them, he feels, will be attracted by an unprecedented display of new buses and bus equipment, exceeding all previous bus convention exhibits.

Swift will round out a year as president of the organization as the meeting convenes.
